Students, Parents and the stake holders were also present for this interactive session. The Patron invited queries and suggestions from all present which were noted down for further action.

SCHOOL GARDEN

A great way to teach ecological literacy and respect for the Earth, is to help students grow a garden. They end up learning the most important thing which they never learnt.

The idea of a garden has always been important in poetic imagination, as parable, as metaphor for human activity, as sanctuary, going all the way back to the original garden, the Biblical Garden of Eden. The activity of gardening lends itself inevitably to metaphors of human work, human influence on the natural world & all the natural processes of life, growth and death.

Our School Garden is in full bloom & one can find myriad flowers in varied hues everywhere. The School Garden transforms the entire campus & spreads its pleasant fragrance all over. It is indeed a pleasure for the eyes to enjoy such a pleasant sight
